

Curriculum Director Training Level I

“Leadership combines large amounts of autonomy with clear, uncompromising direction.”

Rick Dufour

The job of Curriculum Director requires a clear understanding of the many responsibilities attached to the position. Without that understanding an individual can spend much of their time tangled-up in ‘what is’ and ‘how do I’ situations. This workshop is designed to help define curriculum leadership responsibilities by providing a review of the “process” of developing and revising an effective K-12 curriculum. A focus will be placed on the following:

- Clear Learning Targets
- Assessments - formative and summative
- Student engagement for deeper understanding
- Data analysis
- Vertical Teams
- Alignment
- Curriculum terms/vocabulary
- Expectations for the MSIP process

In addition, valuable resources will be shared and opportunity presented to develop a supportive network with other Curriculum Directors.
